It doesn't require a city ordinance to regulate the hours when one family shall go to bed, or get up, or have breakfast.

When a man may begin work, or quit work, or sit down, or stand up, or whether his clock shall be half an hour faster of ten minutes slower than his neighbor's are not matters for municipal regulation. They are private affairs solely, and, being such, each citizen can regulate them to suit himself. Now, if the people of Maysville want to adopt standard time, all they have to do is to adopt it. Just turn your clocks and watches twen
